

April 2007 Monthly Report

In April we had two classes. "Beginner's Chainmaille" and "How to shop at Value Village."

For Beginner's Chainmaille Joe Klovance / Griffith came out and graciously provided us with rings to use and pliers to borrow. Griffith taught us a basic weave and showed us various pieces he had completed. We also learned the basics of what countries used what weaves. It has been decided that Joe will be at A&S on the first Wednesday of every month to do informal chainmaille nights. This will not only be a time for people to learn how to do chainmaille but will also be a night where people can work on their various projects that aren't chainmaille.

At Value Village Mercy took us through the store and showed us what to look for. We went through the entire store looking at things from the perspective of how you could change things to be appropriate for used in the SCA.

The regulars are still attending A&S every Wednesday and there have been a couple new faces this month. The classes for May have not yet been decided. There will be no classes in June, July or August. However, A&S will continue as usual with no interruptions planned at this point.
